SLEEPER CRACK is a full arrange of instruments for working with all renditions of Windows. Jan 27, 2020 Category:Windows-only software Category:System maintenance Category:Utilities for WindowsUS'should leave Afghanistan' RAW STORY Published: Thursday November 14, 2008

Print This Email This The U.S. should "leave" Afghanistan as soon as possible, according to a poll released today by CBS News. The poll of 1,001 respondents found that 54% of Americans think the United States should withdraw its troops from the Middle East, including Afghanistan, and 58% would support doing so by the end of this year. The poll was conducted November 3-6, and only 35% disagreed with the suggestion that the U.S. should leave. The survey also found some evidence of support for the bombing of Pakistan for its alleged assistance with the attacks, with 56% saying the U.S. should do so and 40% saying they would support it. Just over half of the poll's respondents thought the U.S. should pursue the "kinetic" war -- killing people on the ground -- in Afghanistan rather than going after the "tactical" elements of the terrorist organization, while 41% said they would support such "kinetic" operations. The poll found some differences between men and women. Women were much more likely than men to disagree with the suggestion that the U.S. withdraw from Afghanistan, and they were also more likely to say they thought the U.S. should bomb Pakistan. Another difference was the link people felt between the CIA and al-Qaeda. In general, women were more likely to say the U.S. was doing a good job and that the CIA was working together with al-Qaeda. Men were more likely to say that "the CIA and al-Qaeda are separate entities," and that "the CIA's failure to capture Osama bin Laden" was the main reason the U.S. should no longer go after al-Qaeda.
